Similar Projects

There has been an explosion of interest in indicator projects over the last several years. These projects aim to measure societal progress and wellbeing.

To give you a sense of these projects, we have created this tools:

'Indicator Land' maps

maps that provide links to a range of indicator projects in Australia and around the world

As well as these indicator projects, there are a number of initiatives that define a set of societal goals or aspirations, at global, national state or local level.

To give you a sense of these initiatives, click on the link below:
